PLANNING AHEAD

“Estate plan” is a term used to illustrate a strategy for transferring assets to family members and other beneficiaries after a person’s death. The size and complexity of the estate largely dictate the inclusion of wills, beneficiary forms, trusts, living wills, power of attorney, and life insurance policies. To best prepare an estate plan into action, it is usually preferable for each spouse to have a will of his or her own.

Individual wills enable spouses to maintain separately owned assets, such as inheritance from a parent or property attained prior to marriage, separate from marital or community property. Instructions pertaining to the transfer of ownership of all assets should also be covered. If you already have an estate plan, you should always review your plan in cases of divorce, death of a spouse, adoption, birth of a child, moving from one state to another, receiving a windfall, getting married of remarried. If you have a legal matter, please call the LAW OFFICES OF JOSEPH TOIA, PC at 586-254-1300. Located in the Harvard Professional Bldg. in Shelby Twp., 47678 Van Dyke, we offer “The Quality and Individual Attention You Can Only Receive From Your Personal Attorney.”

HINT: Discuss all trust arrangements with your spouse or partner before signing any documents or funding a trust account.
